32nd SUNDAY in ordinary time

Calling his disciples to himself, he said to them, "Amen, I say to you, this poor widow put in more than all the other contributors to the treasury." - Mk 12:43

My Dear Brothers and Sisters,

Last week Bishop Callahan wrote a letter directed to all the faithful of the diocese about the upcoming General Assembly of the bishops of the United States from November 12 – 14 in Baltimore. Please pray for them as they gather together.

- Fr Bob

This is what he wrote:

Seven Days of Prayer and Fasting

Dear Brothers and Sisters,

May the Lord give you peace.

The bishops of the United States are joining together in a commitment of prayer and reparation leading up to our General Assembly, where we will be making critical decisions in response to the clergy sexual abuse crisis. With my brother bishops across the nation, I will be dedicating myself to seven days of intensified prayer and fasting from Monday, 5 November, through Sunday, 11 November.

The intentions for this period of prayer and sacrifice are three-fold:

- For the healing and support of all victims of clergy sexual abuse.
- For the conversion and just punishment of the perpetrators and concealers of sexual abuse.
- For the strength of the bishops to be holy shepherds in protecting and leading our sheep from all harm.

If you feel called to do so, you are welcome to join me in praying for these intentions. I would also be grateful for any prayers for me and my brother bishops during our general assembly, that we may follow the guidance of the Holy Spirit in responding to the tragedy of clergy sexual abuse in the Church.

Please be assured of my prayers for you, as well.

Sincerely in Christ,

+William Patrick Callahan
Bishop

What Does Sacrifice Look Like?

I think of those who serve in the Armed Forces. They have sacrificed much for my freedom and to work towards real peace in our world. I think of those in service to our Church: priests, deacons, and religious. Their lives are dedicated to prayer and good works so that the Good News might not only be preached but be seen in the love they display toward God and their fellow brothers and sisters. I think of parents who stay up long nights with sick children and then one day find themselves staying up even longer as they wait for them to return home. I think of teachers who work hard to educate the next generation of citizens with low salaries and little respect.

I can see sacrifice all around me. I think you can see it, too, if you look. However, I also see too many seeking to get ahead at the expense of others. I see those who have so much and only crave for more. I see those caught up in themselves to the point where families fall apart, friendships disappear, and people literally die from a lack of compassion. I see many who have forgotten where all their gifts in this world came from, if they even knew in the first place.

I think of all those who sacrifice and see all those who do the opposite. May our eyes see more of those who are generous. May we never focus on those who have forsaken others more than those who have given freely to others. May the witness of true sacrifice show us the way to the Father and to a world full of His love.

We Are Companions on the Journey

By Rev. Mark Suslenko

We spend a lot of mental activity on God, either trying to “figure Him out,” finding the “right prayer” that works, or becoming obsessed with doctrine. What does it really mean to love? Understanding the true essence and meaning of love is essential to loving. If our understanding of love is distorted, then our loving will be distorted.

The other day, I saw a powerful picture of a mother cuddling her newborn baby. The obvious tenderness of the touch, the expressions on their faces, the look in their eyes, & the overall demeanor spoke of an intense moment & connection of love. No words were needed. The bond between mother & child, the delight in the intense moment of presence & the unconditional devotion, were sufficient communicators. It was almost a portrait of one person getting lost in another. You could feel the security, peacefulness, & playfulness of being found & embraced. Mother & child are encircled in a sense of rightness & joined in the discovery of ultimate purpose & place. All of these were truths around this “I love you” moment. How much & what one being knew about the other, matter little in this blest opportunity of being “with”.

God loses Himself in us so that we can be transformed more completely into the image & likeness of Jesus Christ. Through the eyes of contemplation, we begin to see as God sees & love as God loves. Because of this loving embrace, we can freely & willingly choose to place our own needs aside. We can then allow God to increase & bring to perfection the divine gifts He gives us at our creation: faith, hope, and love. “You shall love the Lord, your God,” your neighbor, & your very self. Sometimes we water down our understanding of love to things we do for another. Taking out the garbage, cleaning the car, buying flowers, & leading a devotional life are all things we do as statements of our love. Yet, love is much more than these kind, noble gestures. There is a condition of being that precedes all of this, a genuine “I want to be with you & need to be with you” sense that permeates from the core of one’s being.

So many have a difficult time understanding that they have been loved into existence. I guess it is easier to conclude that we just evolved as simple products of a growing planet. Distinguished from animals & plants by the presence of reason, we are simply one among the other inhabitants. If that’s all there is, then what’s the point? Life then becomes all about self-fulfillment & survival of the fittest... We all turn to dust at day’s end. It’s a limited vision that uses love as something I need more than something that brings me to a deeper place and fulfillment when I give.

Faith is a leap, primarily from the unintentional to the intended, the accidental to the purposeful. Faith tells us that we are NOT accidents or random occurrences. Rather, we are intentional persons who are loved & intricately designed children of a God, who wants nothing more than to gaze into our eyes & receive our gaze in return! He wants us to have many “I love you” moments in time, when we are embraced & loved & when one being is lost in another, & moments of security, peacefulness, & even playfulness.

“I love You, God,” the child says. “I love you even more,” says God in return. To love is to be wholly devoted to another. It requires that I give my entire essence or soul to the truth of who I am, to my intended being in God and purpose in God’s kingdom. To love is to understand wholly and completely that I cannot “be” without God and that it is God’s own love-presence that flows through me, sustains me, and flows out of me. That is why it’s so important to love our neighbor. It has to be. This doesn’t mean that I just do nice things for them but that I really and truly see myself lovingly connected to all of my brothers and sisters. This is why we must protect life at all costs. When someone is hurt, we’re hurt. We cannot allow ourselves to become numb to the pain and suffering of others. We are all connected.

If we look into the eyes of someone we only know as a fellow journey person, brother, or sister in faith, what do we see, who do we see? There is a profound story beneath those eyes & in their soul. It is a story of embrace & love and of wounds that caused pain. Their eyes speak of successes and failures, sin & grace, the deep & often soul wrenching need for love, a desire for faith, and much more. Companions on a journey to, with, and in God.

We like to complicate things. Jesus kept it all very simple. In a moment of quiet, allow your soul (your inner eyes) to contemplatively (lovingly) gaze upon and seek God. Allow yourself to get lost in the gentle darkness and reach inwardly for the Other, your Creator. Allow God to find you and enjoy a quiet moment, if only quickly, between two best and inseparable friends. This is where contemplation begins and we begin to see and feel differently.
