"They can no longer die, for they are like angels;
and they are the children of God because they are the ones who will rise." - Lk 20:36

Promise of the Resurrection

Br. Silas Henderson, SDS

There is a fascination in our culture with what happens when we die. Books and films like "Heaven Is for Real" and "90 Minutes in Heaven" captured the attention of millions of Americans looking for some sense of hope and meaning for their lives. For us, as 21st century Christians, belief in life after death is something that seems to be an obvious and vital part of our faith, despite the fact that it is an experience beyond our understanding or imagining.

And yet, in the time of Jesus, belief in a resurrected life was still a relatively new concept. As Sr. Barbara Reid, O.P., observes in "Abiding Word," "Ideas varied about what it would be like. In the first reading today (2 Maccabees 7:1-2, 9-14), we see the belief expressed that only the just would be raised, not the wicked. In other texts, we find the notion that both would be raised, the former to eternal reward, the latter for everlasting punishment (cf. Matthew 25:46)." Jesus' audience would have also included those who did not believe in the concept of a life beyond death, especially the theologically conservative Sadducees. It is this group of religious elite who challenge Jesus in this Sunday's Gospel passage.

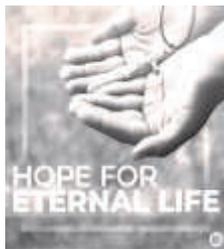

St Luke sets the scene by having a group of Sadducees trying to trick Jesus into getting involved in their own philosophical debates about resurrection and the existence of angels. They ask Jesus a ridiculous and convoluted question, trying to show that resurrected life is impossible and even at odds with their own religious tradition and the Law of Moses. Ultimately, their question is about men, seven brothers, possessing a woman in the afterlife. Although this scenario seems ridiculous to us today, it is based on marriage laws found in the Book of Deuteronomy (25:5-6), in which Moses says that a widow's brother-in-law marries her to ensure that lands stay in the first husband's family and that his name is carried on.

In response, Jesus unravels their question and misperceptions by declaring that there would be no need for marital arrangements in the afterlife. In the resurrection, each person lives as God's child, free from the fear and prospect of death. As Reid notes, "Jesus shows the Sadducees that Moses himself can be read as affirming that life continues beyond the grave. We can hear, as well, in Jesus' response, God's desire for an end to any abuse of women. As beloved daughters of God, they are no longer passed from man to man."

The resurrected life proclaimed by Jesus goes beyond the limits of human existence. The expectations and customs of this life do not apply. As Pope Francis has reflected, "It is not this life that will serve as a reference point for eternity, for the other life that awaits us; rather, it is eternity, that life, which illumines and gives hope to the earthly life of each one of us!" (Angelus, November 10, 2013).

As we enter into the final weeks of the church year, our attention is being drawn to the second coming of Christ and the themes of the "Last Things": death, judgment, heaven, and hell. And this Sunday's Gospel is an invitation for us to reflect on the promise of a resurrected life offered us by Jesus: our perfect union with God and the fullness of life forever.

In the end, our belief in the resurrection of the dead and the promise of life beyond death leads us to an encounter with the God who is the God "of the living". Eternal life isn't a mystery to be puzzled out or something that can be captured in books or in films. Rather, it is a promise and a gift that is based on our hope and confidence that God is at work in us even now and that we can experience this resurrection life today as we celebrate the joy, mercy, and peace that comes through our faithful relationship with God. We can be confident that what we experience here

"In my Father's house there are many dwellings...I shall come back to take you with Me, that where I am you also may be." John 14:2, 3

St Vincent de Paul is looking for "Bridge-Builders"

Please consider becoming a mentor to help participants in a successful St Vincent de Paul program called "Getting Ahead in a Just Getting By World". This 16-20 session workshop helps individuals build their own personal plan to get out of poverty. The program helps participants explore their "Life Now"; develop their "Future Story"; and learn how they can apply the "Theory of Change," to "Get Ahead". Mentors are a powerful part of this process. Those living in unstable environments need people in their lives who can support them through the very difficult changes necessary to build skills, change relationships, connect with resources, and develop the attitudes and behaviors necessary to complete this journey. Typically, Mentors meet with their investigators once a week for one hour and are available for occasional phone calls. Mentors are not a 24/7 hotline, nor do they provide financial support. Training is available. Call 715-298-3028 ext. 2 Email: gettingahead@svdpwausau.org

Address Changes: Rib Mountain, Stettin & Others

If your address has been changed, please let us know as soon as possible by calling the Parish Center at 715-842-3148 or Email at: barbsr@stmatthewausau.org

Starting in Theaters November 22

"A Beautiful Day In The Neighborhood"

Tom Hanks portrays Mister Rogers in a timely story of kindness triumphing over cynicism. Fred Rogers was one of the most influential Christians of the 20th century. He conveyed Gospel principles to millions, using stories instead of sermons. In the film, Fred's love for Jesus is made self-evident through his ability to see the inner child in everyone. As Mark 12:31 says, "Love your neighbor as yourself." In today's world, we all need to be reminded of the power of love and the importance of saying, "Won't you be my neighbor?"

Understanding Gender Identity - A Webinar & Newsletter

The culture's campaign on gender identity is very confusing because it says that you can't trust the physical reality of your own body. Is this really true?

Because humanity passes by way of the family Jeff Arrowood and Alice Heinzen, co-authors of the Teaching the Way of Love series, will address gender issues during the next Necessary Conversation webinar for adults and parents on Monday, November 11th at 8 pm. The conversation will explain what is true (and what isn't) regarding gender and provide time for you to ask your questions. Register at www.twl4parents.com/webinar. The $6 cost will include participation in the webinar, numerous downloadable resources and access to the post webinar recording. You can also access the current Teaching the Way of Love parent newsletter which addresses the same topic at www.twl4parents.com/understanding-gender-identity
